TURKS PILLAGED AMERICAN HOSPITAL

BLEW VAULT AT STEWARD LAST NIGHT

Attempt to Burglarize Shearer Bank Was Fruitless

BLEW MONEY TO ATOMS

Robbers Used So Much Explosive They Destroyed Money

The huge vault at U. S. Shearer's bank at Steward was totally wrecked and the bank building in the center of the village was badly damaged at about 2 o'clock this morning by high explosives used by robbers in a fruitless attempt to secure the currency in the vault, for the several thousand dollars in paper money was blown to atoms by the overcharge which the robbers used.

Practically every resident of the village was awakened at the early hour by three explosions in quick succession. Those living nearest the bank dressed hurriedly and started an investigation, but before anyone got near the institution two men were seen to jump into a Ford automobile and dash away. No trace of them has been found. Two strangers who were seen about the village yesterday, one tall, the other somewhat shorter, are suspected of the attempt on the bank.

The first of the charges was evidently to force an entrance to the banking room, the second to the outer door of the vault and the last to the vault proper. The last charge completely wrecked the vault, blew out the side of the bank building and threw debris ten feet from the building. The currency was destroyed but as far as the bank employees had been able to determine today none of the notes or valuable papers stored in the strong box were injured. The damage to the vault and building is covered by insurance.

ECKERT TURNED OVER TO FEDERAL OFFICIAL

Dixon Man Taken to Freeport Today to Answer Various Charges

INSULTED THE FLAG

Emil Eckert, who has been in custody of the sheriff for several days, charged with making insulting remarks about the flag, and other anti-American statements, was taken to Freeport this morning, where he was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Chas. H. Green.

This action was taken following the receipt of word from U. S. District Attorney Charles F. Clyne, received this morning, which stated that Assistant U. S. Attorney Douglas Pattison would have charge of the case at Freeport.

Eckert was sent to jail after a talk with the members of the Loyalty committee of this county in which he admitted that he had made all the statements charged against him.

DIXON NURSE BACK FROM SWITZERLAND

Miss Matzinger Spent Several Months Near Scene of Battles

HAVE FOOD SHORTAGE

Miss Emma Matzinger, R. N., has returned from Switzerland after a several months' visit with her parents there. She says that neutral Switzerland is paying a heavy toll on account of the war, not in lives, but in the extreme shortage and entire want for many of the necessities of life. Miss Matzinger, after graduating from the local hospital, returned to her native country for the purpose of enlisting in the Red Cross service, but was not accepted, because of some technicality. She stated that the heavy cannonading of the warring armies could be constantly heard where she was visiting and evidences of the war could be seen everywhere.

Milk and cheese, which have always been so abundant in Switzerland, are very scarce and high in price. It is impossible to get flour, and each resident is given a bread card and is allowed only a small square each week. There is practically no pork and the price of beef is almost prohibitive. Sugar is sold by grams and each person is allowed about a cup and a half per month.

She stated that the return trip to this country was without incident, but said she might have had difficulty in returning had it not been for the fact that she was a nurse.

PROCLAMATION TO THE CITIZENS OF DIXON

The President has fixed upon June 28th as National War Savings Stamp Day. This campaign is of great importance in that it reaches many who cannot take part on the battlefield nor subscribe to Liberty Bonds. Therefore, I ask every man, woman and child of Dixon on or before June 28th to pledge themselves to buy stamps as regularly as possible, through membership in the War Savings Societies. Let us all enlist in this Volunteer Army of Saving, and show the boys at the front that we are back of them, heart and soul.

Signed,

HENRY SCHMIDT, Mayor.

SAYS PROHIBITION IS MENACE TO SHIP WORK

Chairman Hurley Opposes Proposition for Nation-Wide Prohibition

WANTS FIGHTERS NOW

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Washington, June 19.—Vigorous protests against absolute nation-wide prohibition were made to the House Agricultural Committee today by Bainbridge Colby, a member of the shipping board, who declared if beer were taken from the workmen in the yards the production of ships would be reduced 25 per cent. He said he appeared as a representative of Chairman Hurley of the Shipping Board.

"Let us put our energy into converging our energy at the front," he said, "and let us not attempt to reform appetites. Let's fight now. It's not the teetotaler, but the fighter, we want now."

German patrols have been active along the American positions on the Marne, but their efforts have been repulsed. One enemy patrol was almost wiped out by American machine gun fire.

The fierce attack by the Austrians on the Piave continues, but the defense still holds, according to Rome advices.

Although the situation along the Piave has not improved from the allied standpoint, the Austrians appear to have been defeated in their most coveted movements.

Unless his troops show swifter progress Emperor Charles of Austria will have to call off his "hunger offensive" and face the populace at home.

Guy Simonson Tells Parents
Dixon Boys Are Engaged in Mechanical Work

GET WEEK ENDS OFF

A letter has been received by Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Simonson from their son, Guy, who enlisted in a special mechanical branch of service and was sent to the Northwestern University at Evanston, last Saturday morning, for a three months training. The letter, which is as follows, contains many interesting side lights on his experience since he entered the service:

Dear Mother and Father: Well we are here all O. K. Everybody seems happy in general. We Dixon bunch are all in the barracks together. I have a room with Fred Oesterheld. We were examined at the gym. this morning. They told me they would probably operate on me when they got me to a big camp. We will probably get our suits next week. Guess there is nothing I need now. Well yes, today we had for dinner, beef loaf, boiled potatoes, bread and butter, coffee, chopped pickle and peaches. Some breakfast today, fried potatoes, eggs, bread and coffee, oatmeal and bananas. They said to me when I told them I was a "stenographer," "we can use us as we need lots of 'stenogs'." So they liable to send me to some camp soon or use me here as a "steno." The work here is woodwork and sheet metal work.

We have the regular military training here and they are very strict. Get up at 5:45 and everything same as army. We will be allowed off from Saturday at 4:00 p. m. until 10:00 p. m. Sunday night. We got our "shot in the arm" Thursday, so guess none will want to go home this week. We have to ask for passes on Thursday before the Saturday.

We had lots of fun about the physical examination this morning (Monday) and Frank Perry jumped away from the Doctor because he tickled him.

I called Caroline up when we were at the C. & N. W. on our way here. Guess we will like it here. We will be here about two months if we go as soon as the last bunch.

Your son,
PRIV. GUY H. SIMONSON,
Hoffield House, Northwestern University Training Detachment,

Three Kinds of Forest Fires.
There are three kinds of forest fires—the "surface fire," which merely runs in the leaves and ground litter; the "ground fire," that covers the under-brush and the dense forests; and the "crown fire," the most dangerous and terrifying of all. A crown fire is usually caused when the ground or surface fire reaches the top of a ridge or knoll, and the increased draft carries the blaze up the trunks of the trees to the tops of the "crowns." It is the crown fires which have made the great forest fires of history. Surrounding the burning area by a trench from which everything down to the mineral soil has been removed is the only kind of fire line which will stop a ground fire, and it will often stop a surface fire. For surface fire "whipping" or using brush branches or water soaked sacking to whip the burning leaves at the edge of the fire back into the burned area is most effective. Sand as well as water is valuable in fighting this kind of fire, too. There is only one way to fight a crown fire—that is, by "back-firing"—fighting fire with fire.

As the World Moves On.
If we do not age the youth that has passed, middle age is a state of dignity. It has more of pleasure and less of pain than has blundering, suffering youth. The world moves more steadily for us. In youth it tumbled about to our discomfiture. Age need not terrify us, for if we have prepared for it it will be life's holiday. Don't apologize for middle age. Exult in it. It can be a melancholy state or a triumphant one. Which it shall be depends upon us.—Chicago Examiner.

A Broad Jumper.

Money-Getting in Emergencies
Another difference in an emergency is that the poor man wonders how he is going to earn the money and the financier wonders where he's going to borrow it.—Galveston News.

MRS. WALLACE HICKS' FUNERAL THURSDAY

SERVICES FOR DEPARTED LEE CENTER WOMAN TO BE HELD AT CHURCH THERE.

Mrs. Lizzie C. Hicks, a well known resident of Lee Center township, passed away suddenly Sunday morning at the Amboy hospital. The funeral services will be held from the late home at 1:30 Thursday afternoon and from the Congregational church at Lee Center at 2 o'clock. Interment will be in the Woodside cemetery at Lee Center.

Lizzie C. Moulton was born at Pavilion, Kendall Co., Ill., June 21, 1857, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Moulton. When a small child her parents moved to Amboy where she grew to womanhood.

On March 7, 1887, she was united in marriage to Wallace Hicks of Bradford township, who preceded her in death in February, 1915. To them were born three sons, Henry, living near Lee Center; George, who is at home, and Wallace, now serving his country at Camp Johnston, Fla. She also leaves a sister, Mrs. Florence Ferris of Bale, Mont., besides many friends to mourn her loss.

Mrs. Hicks was a member of the Congregational church of Lee Center and was much interested in the church work. Her sudden death was a great shock to her family, as she seemed to be improving and on the way to speedy recovery.

The Interesting Loon.

The loon is one of the most beautiful and graceful of the wild water fowl, rivaling the wood duck in the markings of its plumage. On the Northern lakes there is no bird that can dive quicker or swim faster. Awkward and clumsy on land, but so active and alert is it in the water that it can dodge bullets. "The loon is a cousin to the beaver," says John Burroughs. "It has the feathers of a bird and the fur of an animal, and the heart of both. It is as quick and cunning as it is bold and resolute. When disabled so that it can neither dive nor fly, it is said to face its foe, look at him in the face with its clear, piercing eye, and fight resolutely till death. The gunners say there is something in the wailing, piteous cry, when dying, almost human in its agony.

Sensitive Plant.

The sensitiveness of some plants has been a matter of deep study by botanists. The sensitive plant and all the mimosa, and the sundew and others are so susceptible to disturbance that a footstep nearby causes flowers and leaves to curl up and droop. After the jarring has ceased they slowly regain their upright positions.

Useful Birds.

Ducks, geese and guineas are as good as a watchdog to give an alarm of approaching strangers. They are more profitable, too, because the food they consume is converted into salable products.

Rat Population.

The United States public health service estimates that the number of rats

Covering the Pergola.

Apple and pear trees are sometimes used to cover the pergola; they are grown as cordons and, in this case, the foundation must be of curved iron rods. These pergolas are lovely in the spring time, when they become a perfect mass of blossom and they form a good entrance to the kitchen garden. Sometimes pergolas are covered with laburnum or lime trees; a good example of the latter being the walk which incloses the sun garden in Kensington gardens, where one passes through a tunnel of greenery in the form of a square, the lime being trained over curved iron supports, while at intervals windows are cut in that side of the pergola, which overlooks the garden. This walk is, indeed, less a pergola than a return to the pleached alley of olden times, and it is a refreshing thing to find in the midst of a great city.—London Letter to Christian Science Monitor.

Plant Life in Books.

We have all heard of the worms that live in books and do so much damage, but until recently it was not known that books also have plants which thrive inside their covers. As a French scientist has discovered, most books show traces of plant life on their leaves and in some cases this life is considerable enough to constitute a veritable miniature botanical garden. The plant life in books shows itself in the form of tiny yellowish, black or reddish spots, which are so often seen on the pages of both new and old volumes. The plants are nothing more or less than a low form of mushrooms which sometimes envelope themselves with a protective covering and, when mashed by pressure of the sides of the books, secrete the colored liquid which spreads through the page.

Training Little Children.

Physicians agree that infants under the age of 6 months should never be played with, or needlessly handled or caressed, and though it may be the dearest delight to rock and coddle the new infant, and to watch his sweet ways, the wise mother will place him comfortably in crib or carriage, and let him go to sleep by himself, preferably in the open air. Babies treated in this same, unselfish fashion seldom cry except for some good reason. Self-control and self-reliance seem big words to apply to infant education, but these virtues have their foundation in earliest childhood. The child's wonderful mysterious little personality must have time to develop itself, and growth and strength come "in the silence."—Exchange.

Rat Population.

The United States public health service estimates that the number of rats living under normal conditions in our cities equals the human population, but that in country districts they are relatively three of four times as numerous. This estimate is practically the same as that obtained some years ago in Great Britain and Ireland, Denmark, France and Germany. At intervals, as the result of especially favorable conditions of food supply and weather, extraordinary increases of rats occur over considerable areas and the damage by them is enormously increased.

1200 New York Doctors Fighting Poison Gas.

Do you know that you folks at home as well as the brave boys "overthere" are menaced by "poison gas"—the insidious kind that steals away health and the joy of living, in the perpetually recurring disturbances resulting from a gassy, sour stomach.

1200 New York physicians regularly prescribe JOHN'S DIGESTIVE

TABLETS as the most perfect form of relief known for these stomach disorders. The TABLETS are highly beneficial for gastric and intestinal indigestion, heartburn, acid or sour stomach, flatulence and gastric catarrh. They sure do vanish that poison gas which is the basis of most stomach ailments, as well as banish bad breath which usually heralds that gas-filled stomach.

Get the TABLETS at your drug store. They insure quick, lasting relief by taking three to six dissolved in a glass of water or chewed before swallowing. Have JOHN'S DIGESTIVE TABLETS handy in the dining room for chronic cases of gastric or intestinal indigestion—as one or two TABLETS should be taken before each meal.

Start Tomorrow
and Keep It Up
Every Morning

Get in the habit of drinking a glass of hot water before breakfast.

We're not here long, so let's make our stay agreeable. Let us live well, eat well, digest well, work well, sleep well, and look well, what a glorious condition to attain, and yet, how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnated matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble; others who have swollen skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of inside-bathing before breakfast.

Honoring French Soldiers

Of the methods of honoring the soldiers for distinguished service on the field of battle, the "fouragers" conferred upon the crack regiments of France is one of the most original. It consists of a colored cord ending in a brass tag, the name being derived from the French word for a tethering rope for horses. Every officer and man in a regiment rewarded for gallantry in action by the fouragers has the right to wear this cord round the left shoulder. There are two classes of distinction, one having green and red cord to correspond with the croix de guerre, and the other being in green and yellow, on the lines of the rarer medaille militaire.

Cultivate Some Hobby.

You need not fear that retirement will "shorten your life" if you only arrange to keep body and brain employed, writes a scientist. If you have no hobbies, cultivate them—hobbies that will interest you out of doors for a few hours daily, such as golf and gardening; and others that will give your brain employment indoors, such as chess, reading, music, writing, and so on. If you thus occupy your time agreeably and healthily you will add happy years to your life and be able to snap your fingers at the doctor.

Joy, the "Big Medicine."

Happiness lengthens, broadens and deepens life. And, like the quality of mercy, to be permanent and natural it should not be strained, but should flow freely, first as the result of good digestion that attends on appetite, and next because it makes the persistent will to be glad automatic. Of all the "big medicine" that has ever been brewed in the alembic of science there is nothing so big, so certain, so complete and so satisfying as joy.—Exchange.

And for Good Reasons.

The self-satisfied person who always knows he could have done better than the one who was present in time of some special trouble or danger is seldom the person to whom anyone turns when help or advice is needed.

No moth can possibly live in your clothes if you spray them with ENOZ. You can't insure your clothes against damage by moth, because there's no such thing as-moth insurance.

But ENOZ is better than insurance. It is instant and positive death to moths. There is no escape for this deadly insect. It can't hide or fly away.

ENOZ is a powerful liquid chemical that penetrates and permeates the clothes without stain or harm to the clothes or you.

It has been used for a long time by big manufacturers of clothing, rugs, carpets and furniture—by dealers in furs, feathers and other articles that have been the prey of moths since the world began. There isn't another remedy in the world that remedies—no other that kills or really prevents. All other so-called preventives are exploded. The moth-ball never prevents a moth.

ENOZ has saved millions of dollars' worth of fine goods. This is the first time it has ever been advertised to the public. Every household should have it now.

Now is the time to use it. You are about to put away your winter clothes. Spray them with ENOZ now and they will be saved for next winter. The minute you begin using ENOZ your home is guaranteed safe from moths. You will never see another one.

"The Soldier."

Edward J. Heckman, who is in France, has sent to his mother, Mrs. Kate Heckman, and his sister, Mrs. George Burckhart of Dixon, a copy of "The Soldier," a camp ballad written by Corporal Russell H. Leach, Co. C, 33 Michigan Infantry, and published "for the boys who serve with him. Excerpts will be printed from time to time.

THE SOLDIER.

Prude. The golden sun had settled in the distant western sky, Evening shades are slowly falling, and the night birds softly cry. Just down there in the valley, just below the towering hill, A soldier camp is lying and, through the evening still Comes the sound of voices singing Songs we all knew long ago— Songs that fill your heart with rapture—songs of home and mother, too:

"We Are Tenting Tonight on the Old Camp Ground"; those voices sweet and low, Sing the songs that one and all love, those songs of long ago. Then, from the starry night clouds, bugle notes I heard so sweet; "Taps" were sounding from the camp ground, "Go to sleep, yes, go to sleep." The light of camp-fires vanished and all seemed still and dead Except from guard-post sounded the sentry's soft, low tread. All through the night he watches, alert for any sight or sound, Protecting sleeping comrades from some enemy unfound.

Oh, little do you imagine the cares he undergoes To give his life for his country, to protect her from her foes. Not till the eastern sky is flooding with the golden sunlight's glare Can he but rest a moment or forget his duty there; When he is thinking of his comrades who sleep while he's on guard, He also thinks of home, sweet home (His work is long and hard); He thinks of all the loved ones back home, so far away. He offers all to Old Glory—even his life may be the pay.

Back home he has a sweetheart, just a mere girl, and his heart Forever will be with her even though they're miles apart. He is doing just his duty: he is doing all man can To preserve the cause of liberty in this noble, God's own land.

Delightful Recital.

Twas a very pretty recital that the voice pupils of Mrs. E. M. Goodsell gave at St. Paul's Lutheran church last evening under the auspices of the Ladies Aid society of the church for which an offering was taken during the evening. The church was quite filled and pleasure and appreciation of the sweet voices and excellent technique exhibited in the rendition of the various numbers was voiced by all at the close of the program.

Those who were present at this recital were the Misses Henrietta Florschutz, Josephine Ives, Ethel Bollman, Orlean Newcomer, Virginia Smith, Goldie Albright, Ione Scott, Tomina Hyland, Emily Williams, Seville Crawford, Alethea Roe and the Mesdames Irvin Trump, Harry Lager and C. E. Powell.

John and Clinton Ives and Earl Seineff assisted in the accompaniments on the cello, violin and trombone in the chorus number "When Life is Brightest" (Pensu) and in "The Star Spangled Banner" in which the audience joined in singing. Mr. Seineff played the offertory, Calvary, on the trom

IMPROVEMENT of the mail service, an order to the soldiers in France to write home frequently and an appeal to the American friends and families to keep a steady stream of letters to the boys in France are the three measures being taken by General Pershing to WRITE EARLY. keep up the morale of the American troops and the American people. A military express service which will handle all the mail to and from the American Expeditionary Forces has been ordered established by General Pershing. This service will deliver all express matter bound from the United States direct to the proper express company, and will take over, expand and develop the motor dispatch service.

Mail for the boys in France, it is announced, should be clearly addressed with name, rank, unit, regimental organization and arm of the service. When this is done the military postal express service will deliver direct. In other cases all mail will be sent to a central point for redirection, thereby causing delay.

This express service will make regulations covering the transportation of mail and express and the size and weight of packages, and will establish liaison with the military postal forces of the Allies and the civil postal authorities in the United States. Lieut. Col. Thorndyke D. Howe has been made director of the military postal express.

With the improvement of the mail service, the army authorities hope that the families and friends of the soldiers will receive new inspiration for the sending of cheerful, hopeful letters to the boys. A homesick soldier is a poor soldier, and lack of mail is one of the greatest factors in making a poor fighting man, the officers declare. Many letters, and cheerful letters are just as much a duty of the American people in the fight as are the sending of food and ammunition.

The soldier's end of the correspondence is not neglected by General Pershing, and a general army order has been issued to every officer in foreign service to do everything in his power, even to furnishing writing facilities, to make his men write regularly and often to family and friends at home. Part of the order reads:

"When no letters are received from overseas, the greatest distress is caused at home. They either feel that letters have been written but lost en route, or else they imagine all sorts of evils, such as sickness, wounds, even death. Both are bad for the active militant spirit which every true American man or woman must possess if our army is to obtain the real victory that all so earnestly desire."

"Letters home will bring many letters in reply, and the closer home ties will have potent influence for good, both in France and in the United States."

BOY IN TRANCE GIVES PROPHESY ON END OF WAR IN APRIL, 1923

Washington Lad Tells of Strange Events While in Subconscious State

SAYS U. S. WILL WIN

Washington, June 19.—Under tense and tragic circumstances, several physicians and nurses in Emergency hospital recently listened to a remarkable prediction by a twenty-year-old Washington boy, in a mysterious sub-conscious state of mind, that peace in the great world's war will be definitely and finally concluded April 9, 1923, at 6:30 p.m.

This peace will come as a result of 3,800,000 American officers and soldiers having crashed their way across the Rhine and started a last march to Berlin, having victoriously fought their way over the historic stream.

Final Disaster for Germans

The Germans will get a taste of final disaster before another year has passed by being badly defeated by the allies in France, and from them on until peace is signed they will almost constantly be on the defensive, losing ground steadily until American manpower and military science conquer the stubbornly fighting Teutons.

When all is over the allies will owe the United States billions of dollars loaned to them, but they will be so grateful that they will early begin to repay the debt.

President Wilson will again have been re-elected to another term in the white house and, aided by Taft, Roosevelt and Hughes, will have put through congress a universal training law by which every man above 18 years of age, up to 45 will have to take military training.

These were only part of the remarkable demonstration of what specialists referred to as the presence in one person of two remarkably developed minds — the normal and subconscious.

The patient was Edward R. Dean, son of the late Dr. Julian Willis Dean, himself a distinguished Washington physician, who died in 1903. Young Dean was stricken as a child with severe spinal meningitis, and the father predicted that from sixteen to twenty-one years of age the boy would be subject to convulsions. If his health was able to resist the strain until the twenty-first year the young man would become strong and robust, with keen mental development.

Accompanied by a member of his family the young man was on his way to Dr. Hickling's office when attacked by the nervous disorder that troubles him. He was promptly taken to Emergency hospital and given temporary treatment. Following the convulsion he remained in an unconscious state for two hours during which, in the most beautiful language imaginable, he talked wonderfully on subjects presumably far removed from thoughts of a boy of that age under normal conditions.

Physicians and nurses, amazed at the language and predictions, stood at his bedside without asking questions or prompting him in any way. They had never seen or heard of a similar case.

Talks Several Languages

The patient not only made the prediction quoted, going into details, but talked fluently in German, Italian, and Latin. He never studied or read any of these languages, being compelled to leave school when in the eighth grade.

On one occasion he described Mars in detail, telling of its geography and inhabitants.

In his war predictions recently he gave the number of billions of dollars this country will owe when peace is signed, what the other countries will owe, and how much will be due from some of them to the United States for loans.

Facts and figures fell from his lips in startling manner, leaving a weird impression upon the minds of his hearers.

When again in normal mind young Dean remembered nothing of what he had said, and the subjects seemed to be far from his thoughts.

In the unconscious or subconscious state of mind the talks are always upon the subjects that would seldom be entertained even remotely by normal mind.

CROWDER WANTS 18-45

DRAFT LAW AT ONCE

of a recent statement he made. He said a week ago that he was not considering the change in draft ages and therefore could not be said to favor it. The erroneous conclusion was drawn from what he said that he opposed the draft increase.

Rests With President.

Gen. Crowder told the house committee last week that he and Secretary Baker were not in full accord on the wisdom of increasing the draft ages. Gen. Crowder had misinterpreted Mr. Baker's position. At a conference today he learned that the secretary does not oppose his draft age increase proposal.

Military officials held to the view that it will be necessary for the war department to take the initiative in going before congress with a proposal for increasing the ages of the draft army, but President Wilson and Secretary Baker have made no move in this direction.

GRACE LUSK IS GIVEN 19 YEARS IN PRISON

Slayer of Mrs. Roberts Will Be Taken to State's Prison Today

IS PRONOUNCED SANE

Waukesha, Wis., June 18.—Grace Lusk will go to the state penitentiary at Waupun tomorrow to serve nineteen years at hard labor for the murder of Mrs. David Roberts. She was sentenced today by Judge Martin Lueck, after three expert alienists had testified that she is sane.

The school teacher slayer fainted when sentence was pronounced and was carried unconscious to her cell by deputy sheriffs.

Friday First Anniversary

The decree contained a clause demanding that the prisoner must spend each anniversary of the slaying in solitary confinement. The first anniversary falls on Friday of this week.

The journey to Waupun will be made tomorrow by auto in company with two deputy sheriffs and a trained nurse.

Before imposing sentence Judge Lueck addressed the convicted woman at length. He told her that in some ways he blamed Dr. Roberts for the murder more than he did her. He declared that it was her attack upon the integrity of the home, however, that had weighed heavily with him in his decision to give her more than the minimum punishment. The minimum sentence for her crime is fourteen years, the maximum twenty-five.

MAYTOWN BOY WRITES OF VIEWING RELICS OF FAMOUS SCENES

Eddie Sharkey Was Given a Short Furlough Which He Used in Traveling

LIKED THE COUNTRY

And Also He Says He Appreciated a Real Bed After the Straw Ticks

Edward Sharkey writes from France, where he is seeing service, to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Sharkey of Maytown, as follows:

Nice, France, May 16, 1918.

Dear Mother: Well, at last I got my vacation. I left the 10th. Was in Paris Friday and Saturday. Took in the sight seeing trip from the Y. M. C. A. Saturday morning. Went through all the important structures of the art. The guide went through and explained every detail.

Those art relics are undoubtedly the most wonderful sights a person could lay eyes on. The oldest structure I saw dated from 225. One stone pillar in the same place dated from 25 B. C. I don't believe I can recollect that far back. All the rest dated from the 5th to the 15th centuries. The kings' carriages are as today as they were 400 years ago. I sat in one carriage and it reminded me of the first ride I ever had in an automobile.

All the statues and decorations are carved out of solid rock and bronze and are perfect today except those which were slightly destroyed during the revolution. I saw the church which was hit by the long range gun is out of commission.

Am in Nice now. Was to Monte Carlo yesterday and a short distance into Italy. Went all through the Casino. Saw where millions of dollars are won and lost—mostly lost. I got two chips for souvenirs and a few pieces of silverware. I bought down town. I got this paper at the Casino. I heard they have a place down there where a person can shoot himself or jump off into the sea after he goes broke. Guess it is patronized quite often, too.

This is the most beautiful country I've ever seen. The inland resembles Colorado very much. From Marfa to Nice and Monte Carlo you follow the Mediterranean very closely. Work and winter are unheard of and nothing here only places to spend your money.

I am getting some real rest though. You can't imagine how much a fellow appreciates a real honest to goodness bed after putting up with a straw tick on a cot for one year.

Well it's about time for lunch, so guess I will close. Would like to write a few more letters, but am afraid I won't have time. Am going to leave Saturday, but will send some large views tomorrow. Regards to all.

Yours as ever, EDDIE.

PART OF LEE COUNTY CONTINGENT WAS SENT TO CAMP SHERIDAN, ALA

Harley Swarts Writes From Montgoberry — Is With Dixon Fellows

Mrs. Bert Swarts of Palmyra has received the following letter from her son Hawley, now at Camp Sheridan, Montgomery, Ala.:

We left Camp Gordon Thursday morning. It was a fine day but they made us keep the windows shut so it got awfully close inside with four men facing in each double seat, each with haversack, gun, etc. The sacks weigh from 50 to 90 pounds. In addition we each had a barracks bag, but they went in the baggage car so we didn't have to bother with them. Armed guards stood at each end of the car so there was no possible way for anyone to get out.

The country down this way is more level. We have seen lots of corn in tassel and people are selling roasting ears, but we haven't had anything like that. Saw many miles of old-fashioned rail fence, and hundreds of acres of cotton, most of which is from a foot to 1 1/2 inches high and looks like a velvet weed, and several acres of peanuts and water melons.

There are more negroes the further south one goes, and worst of all are the snakes. You know Alabama is noted for them. Went out on a scout yesterday, with sword in belt, as we always go, and was going thru some thick timber with a Lieutenant when we heard something rattle and looking around we saw a big snake, six feet long, crawling through the brush toward us. The Lieutenant called some of the men together and with our swords we soon had our first battle with the Germans. The swords are sharp as razors, and of course the battle was short.

We got to Camp Sheridan at 6:30 Thursday night and marched about a mile to our part of the camp, which is larger than Gordon, I think. Each company has a row of tents. The main street is on the south end, next in the mess hall, kitchen and then come our tents. It sure did look terribly discouraging. I was in a tent with entire strangers, but in the morning we got our own tents up, and it looked a little more like home.

—P. N. G. Club.

A meeting of the P. N. G. club, the last for the summer, will be held in I. O. O. F. hall tomorrow at 3 p.m. A scramble supper will be served afterward. It is hoped that every member will be present. The hostesses will be Mrs. Frank Spiller, Mrs. Adolph Eichler and Miss Clara Hartzell.

—Marriage Announced.

Mrs. Samuel A. Kline, South Bend, Ind., has announced the marriage of her daughter, Marguerite to Mr. Elmer Delose Mark, as taking place on Thursday, June 13th, in that city.

The bride is the niece of County Treasurer John E. Moyer of Dixon, Red Cross society is systematicating their work in true army style to make through frequent visits. Mr. Mark for greater efficiency.

U and I Club.

The last meeting before the summer vacation was held by the U and I club last evening at the home of Mrs. Fred Embrey with 15 members present. Social chat and knitting, as usual, occupied the members, the hostess serving tempting two course luncheon at the close of the evening. Red, white and blue were the colors used in the decorations and the flowers composing the centerpiece were in these colors, producing a very pretty effect. The club will have its picnic next Tuesday evening at Assembly park. To this the members of the families are also invited.

St. Agnes Guild.

The last meeting for the summer will be held by the members of St. Agnes Guild at the home of Mrs. L. J. Bertoli, 408 E. Everett St. Friday at 2:30 p.m. The annual reports will be given and officers chosen for the new year. The members are requested to come prepared to do Red Cross sewing.

With Parents.

Mrs. Harry Parkey and son James of Omaha are guests at the home of Mrs. Parkey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Haley.

Sunshine Class Meeting.

A meeting of the Sunshine class of St. Paul's Lutheran Sunday school will be held tomorrow evening at the home of Mrs. Mary Fisher, 1120 Eastern avenue. The assistant hostesses will be the Mesdames Stevens, Hannah Miller and Carrie Bremer. It is hoped that many will attend the monthly social.

Red Cross Notes.

Beginning next week the Lee Co. chapter Red Cross and all county branch chapters will meet but two days a week for a time, according to a suggestion from division headquarters.

The Red Cross workers have been working long and industriously at the quotas assigned them and are being given a short vacation in order that the American Red Cross may make a thorough canvass of what is needed and to eliminate a number of articles which take shipping room, but can be eliminated as not absolutely essential. When this is done the Red Cross will resume its regular schedule and may even work on Sundays, according to word from the central division headquarters.

The bride is the niece of County Treasurer John E. Moyer of Dixon, Red Cross society is systematicating their work in true army style to make through frequent visits. Mr. Mark for greater efficiency.

Alfalfa as Flavoring Extract.
Alfalfa is a mighty useful plant, domestic animals, from the chicken to the cow, find it gastronomically available. But the notion of deriving from a fluid extract for the flavoring of beverages and foods is altogether novel. For this purpose the alfalfa is cut and harvested when about fourteen days old, and eight to twelve inches high. In this early stage of growth it is relatively free from woody fiber. It is washed in warm water and dried by artificial heat, thus retaining its natural flavor and light green color. It is then ground into tiny pieces and boiled in vacuum pans, after which it is filtered, to get rid of the solids. The fluid thereby separated is mixed with pure sugar syrup and bottled. In this shape it is available as a flavoring for soda-fountain beverages, and even for some foods, as well as for chewing-gum and candies. Medicinal properties are claimed for it.

Do Not Dread Tomorrow.

Most of us must work for a living, and a great many of us do not by any means find our daily employment either congenial or to our liking; but if we stand our ground and try, honestly try, to do our work well, to rout depression from our minds and be grateful for the blessings that are ours, we will without doubt gradually become more contented and competent to step into a larger field when the opportunity comes our way. Perhaps today something went wrong in the office or workshop, but that is no reason why we should look for the same unpleasant happening tomorrow. Tomorrow is worlds away. Indeed, not one of us can with certainty say that we know what tomorrow holds in store for us. Then why make ourselves unhappy dreading tomorrow just because something went awry today?—Exchange.

Rough on the Puppies.

The details of the snatching from this life of four brindle Boston bulls in the prime of their puppyhood were recited when a woman reviewed her married life in the court of domestic relations in New York. "Only last week," she said, "our bulldog, Ida, had a family that would have been worth $200 if it had grown. My husband went to a veterinarian and the doctor told him if they wouldn't take milk out of a saucer to put some milk in his own mouth, put a nipple in his mouth and feed them that way, just like dog fanciers do. At first he didn't even want to do it." "Well," said the court, "and what has that to do with the case?" "Because when he did do it, I tell you, the dogs died of alcoholism."

Growth of Trees.

The rate of growth of trees in wood lots and in plantations in central New York is being studied at the New York State College of Forestry. Soil and climate conditions in central New York are unequal for maintenance and rapid forest growth. The so-called virgin forests of the Adirondacks are growing at the rate of about 200 board feet an acre a year. Properly managed forests of southwestern Germany are growing at the rate of from 1,000 to 1,200 board feet an acre a year. Reasonable use of farm wood lots and the planting of the right kinds of forest trees on forest soils means the production of excellent crops of timber, and that within a comparatively short period of time.

Woman War Leader.

Winema, otherwise known as Toby Riddle, is probably the only North American woman who ever led warriors into battle. In the war between the Modocs and the Pitt River (California) Indians many years ago, this dauntless Indian maid, who had previously received the title of Kaltch-kona Winema (sub-chief) when she fearlessly guided her canoe through the rushing waters of Link River and saved the lives of two children, assumed command of the Modocs when that band's leader was shot down. Mounted on her war horse, she rushed to the head of her Indian column and led a brilliant cavalry charge which resulted in a complete victory over the Pitt River tribe.

Keep Track of Expenses.

It's a good thing to keep right account of the expenditures. Some business concerns have a cost account for every line of the business. This avoids that consuming, non-responsible gulf called general expense or sundries. It makes every head of department responsible for every penny used. It's not tightness, it's just business. And when you know that every item is down for accounting you are not likely to be careless in your expenditures. When you take the time to look over expenses carefully before you make them, fewer entries will be made. It's the unwatched outgo that puts the drain on the family purse.—Exchange.

Flanders Always in Limelight.

No part of Europe has a more romantic or a more militant history than that stretch of land between Calais and the Scheldt over which the counts of Flanders held sway for hundreds of years. There is, indeed no century in the Christian era in which Flanders has not figured in the world's history of peace and war. Even as far back as the first century when it formed part of the Roman province of Belgica Secunda this region was distinguished for its industrial towns, which were remarkable for their large populations and democratic rule.

Joke on the Poet.

GRAND DETOUR
John D. Wells, in his "Rhymes of Our Home Folks," tells a joke on himself. "It is difficult to remember all the children of one's own pen," he explains. "I've written a verse a day for fifteen years and oftentimes a forgotten one comes home to chide. Not long ago my little daughter Annette came home from school reciting a bit of verse. 'Did your teacher waste your time memorizing that verse?' I asked. 'Yes, father!' 'Well, it's doggerel; it has neither rhyme nor reason, and you may tell your teacher your father said so.' The next evening at dinner my little daughter said, 'I told my teacher what you said, father—that the rhyme was doggerel.' 'Well,' I asked, 'what did she say?' She said, 'Your father ought to know. He wrote it.'"

When Lost in Woods.

When one is lost in the woods the matter becomes serious. This may prove to even the most acute, and the average city dweller would have difficulty in finding civilization again. So the psychologist has laid down this set of rules. When lost in the woods, keep going down hill and eventually the wanderer will reach a valley. Valleys are open places, usually inhabited. If no sign of men can be found, the straggler should follow a stream, which ultimately will lead him to a house or town. If the country is flat, the injunction to follow a stream is emphasized. In a total absence of water or hills, take note of the sun, determine the points of the compass, and then carefully decide in which direction the nearest habitation is likely to be.

Keeping Expenses Down.

The income is usually reward of industry. The outgo illustrates the power of personal management. In the business world the great bugbear is the overhead charges. They go on whether the plant works full force or not. When they bear an unjust relation to the income, calamity is sure to follow. The same is true with individuals, says Grit. They start in all right but allow the personal expense to grow faster than their surplus income. Better clothes, dainties, increased social expense soon eat up the income and the necessities have to go begging. When you see a man that can regulate his personal expense you will find him a good acquisition to your business.

Wampum.

Wampum was used by the American Indians as money, but it was probably not regarded as money until after the coming of the white man. Indians often exchanged belts or necklaces of wampum for a more desired article but there was little or no idea of using it as a medium of exchange until after the white settlers arrived. The early colonists seized upon the wampum as a handy medium and it was used to such extent in New England that it was accepted by the colonial treasurer in payment of taxes until 1649 and became legal tender in New England and New York in amounts up to five shillings. In 1628, in Massachusetts, six white wampum were valued at one penny.

GRANDMA NEVER LET HER HAIR GET GRAY

She Kept Her Locks Dark and Glossy, with Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur Compound tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is messy and trouble-some. At little cost you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all the hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and not a medicine. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

IF BACK HURTS USE SALTS FOR KIDNEYS

Eat less meat if Kidneys feel like lead or Bladder bothers you—Meat forms uric acid.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

Knights of the Garter.

The Knights of the Garter is the oldest and most envied of all British orders. This order is stated to have been founded somewhere between June 24 and August 6, 1348, by that fearless and chivalrous monarch, Edward III. Some time before that date Edward went a considerable way toward founding an Order of the Round Table in commemoration of King Arthur. A round table, some 200 feet in diameter, was constructed at Windsor, and here the Knights were entertained at the king's expense. By so doing Edward gathered around him a host of adventure-loving spirits, who afterward greatly facilitated his scheme for a war in France.

Flower Calendar.

At Grasse, a town in southern France, the seasons are marked by harvests of flowers, for this is the center of perfume making. In February and March violets and jonquils are the crop. In the summer months roses, orange blossoms and tuberoses fill the air with sweetness. In the autumn lavender is carried to the factories in baskets, on donkey backs and in wagons. All of these flowers are treated in much the same way. They are struck into pure white fat, which draws out all of their perfume. This fat becomes the basis for most of the pomades and perfumes for which Paris is famous.

Alfalfa is a Spanish word used as the common name for medicago sativa. It is a foreign plant now naturalized and well known in many parts of the United States. The plant itself is of Asiatic origin, and from there was introduced into Mexico and South America by the Spaniards 300 or 400 years ago. In 1854 it was brought from Chile to San Francisco and has since become one of the principal forage crops of the far western and some of the southwestern states. It is estimated that about 25 per cent of the tame hay and nearly 20 per cent of all the hay, tame and wild, now produced in the United States, is alfalfa. On this basis the production of alfalfa hay in 1916 was nearly 23,000,000 tons.

Miss Kelly Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health.

Newark, N. J.—"For about three years I suffered from nervous breakdown and got so weak I could hardly stand, and had headaches every day. I tried everything I could think of and was under a physician's care for two years. A girl friend had used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she told me about it. From the first day I took it I began to feel better and now I am well and able to do most any kind of work. I have been recommending the Compound ever since and give you my permission to publish this letter."—Miss FLO KELLY, 475 So. 14th St., Newark, N. J.

The reason this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, was so successful in Miss Kelly's case was because it went to the root of her trouble, restored her to a normal healthy condition and as a result her nervousness disappeared.

Japan's Many Knots.

There is an appeal to the imagination even in the knots intended by the Japanese for common use. There are plus blossom, cherry blossom, iris, chrysanthemum, and pine-tree knots. There are fujiyama knots, turtle and stork knots, the "old man's," which is easy to tie, and the "old woman's" also. There is one way of knotting a cord when sending a New Year's or birthday gift, and another for doing up a funeral offering. There is one way to tie the brocade bag of the tea jar when it is full, and another when it is empty. A sword-bag, a flag or spear-bag, a dispatch bag, or the box containing some precious piece of porcelain or lacquer, must each be tied in a certain way.

The First Headlight.

The first headlight was carried not by a locomotive, but by a winged insect—the lantern fly. Nobody knows just why the lantern fly carries a lantern. Very likely it is for the purpose of notifying insects of like species and opposite sex of its whereabouts. But the contrivance is wholly unique of its kind. The front part of the lantern fly's head is extended in such a way as to form a hollow, bulbous structure that (in a dead-dried specimen) has a paperlike consistency. When the insect flies at night the papery bulb is illuminated. By what? Nobody can say, except that it is a phosphorescent light, and the nature of that is a puzzle to science.

Some Historic Markers.

Vienna boasts the possession of the pencil with which Napoleon I. marked the localities of coming battles during the Austrian campaign. Other pens of international renown are treasured by the Empress Eugenie and the family of Lord Bangor. That in the keeping of the empress was used by the 14 plenipotentiaries who signed the treaty of Paris in 1856. It was made from a quill of a golden eagle's wing and is richly mounted with diamonds and gold. The Bangor quill-pen was used by the high contracting powers in signing the treaty of Vienna.

Harness the Streams.

Of the 60,700 horse power of water power in the United States, all but 5,300,000 horse power is running to waste, Thomas F. Logan writes in Leslie's Magazine. The water is at present locked up against utilization by the laws governing the forest reserves, the general public domain and the navigable streams. It has been estimated by Secretary of Agriculture Houston that there is enough timber going to waste in the forest reserves and on cutover lands to supply wood pulp indefinitely, if the question of its manufacture by water power could be solved.

When Are They Halfsteins? A well-known New York artist visited a farmer friend of his who had among his stock a number of Holsteins, the first he had ever seen to know by sight. He vastly admired their distinctive black and white color scheme and rambled along looking at some other breeds. Presently he came to one all black which riveted his attention. "Say, John," he inquired seriously, "if they are Holsteins when they are half-black, are they Halfsteins when they are all black?"—Judge.

Right Kind of Spunk.

You must never give up until you reach the goal aimed at. Obstacles are the test stones for discovering strength. When sure you are right there can be no real excuse for your failure. Bruce learned from the spider that instead of moping he should spunk up and keep spunked up. History never tires recounting his successes. Cyrus Field knew what it meant when the Atlantic cable parted repeatedly as if in defiance of human invention. But he kept at it and joined together the continents. The same spirit led Edison to make 2,500 trials before he got the results he sought in the incandescent light. Weak men would have given up early in the game. The right kind of spunk is the energy that brings things to pass and makes fortunes.—Pennsylvania Grit.

The Magical Chance.

The giants of old, the frontiers and clippings of old, are gone. Still, what is this news of fleets of wooden ships abounding, with sails of canvas to speed them? They went out with the ebb tide, and here already they come back with the flood! Lay aside the rifle and you pick up the camera—to creep with it into the lion's den; or to climb with it to the top of a towering oak, on some sheer mountain-wall; and, pushing it before you along a horizontal limb, feet dangling in space, a stiff wind blowing, eagles screaming overhead, canyon wall below you, and far, far down the narrow canyon bottom you hold on, body balancing camera, but nothing over against the swaying branch, and grind out a hundred feet of movie film. This is to shoot a good many lions.—Dallas Lore Sharp, in Atlantic Magazine.

Business English in the Far East.

Japan, in her eager adoption of English, the almost universal language of trade, is gradually becoming bilingual; in fact, the whole world is. Money talks, and it beboos those who desire to attract money to speak money's, for the time being, favorite language. I used to think that pidgin English was a name applied to a Chinese jargon that sounded to English ears like some kind of bird talk, and when I learned that "pidgin" is a perfectly legitimate word which means "business" I felt as though I had been robbed of one of my most fanciful conceptions. Business English long since became a necessity in most of the ports of the world.—Eleanor F. Egan in the Saturday Evening Post.

Good Habits and Health.

The man who spends his every cent on money and of health can never get a footing, financially or physiologically. Investing his efforts in wrong directions, they leave him in debt. His life goes on downward, an inevitable failure. The human derelict shuffling along the back street is not simply a financial bankrupt. He is a physical wreck besides. Take one good habit into your family of habits. It is a good breed to have around; it attracts good company. Good habits produce good health, and good health produces a clear mind and good spirits, which in turn promote a successful and happy life.—Chicago Herald.

Society of Cincinnati.

The Society of the Cincinnati was formed in 1783 by officers of the revolutionary army to keep up a spirit of comradeship among its members. It took its name from the Roman ruler who was a farmer before he was a soldier. At first, membership in the society was made hereditary passing from father to oldest son, but Washington persuaded the society to abandon this feature. It was considered rather an aristocratic organization and the legislatures of some of the states censured it. The city of Cincinnati was named in honor of it.

Pretty Spot in West Indies.

Port Castries is the principal city of St. Lucia, which has been called the most French of the British West Indies. It lies on a very perfect little harbor and furnishes Great Britain with a splendid naval base. The city itself is not particularly attractive, but the hills, choked with tropical foliage, rising behind, and the blue waters lapping before lend it the charm that is common to all the West Indies.

High Relish of Disgust.

Amongst the various assumptions of character which hypocrisy has taught, and men have practiced, there is none that raises a higher relish of disgust than to see disappointed inverarity twisting itself by the most visible falsehoods into an appearance of pietry it has no pretensions to.—Thomas Paine.

: THE EVENING STORY :

Beauty and the Beast

pale and rushed into the shrubbery, where he hid himself. Somebody shook the heavy iron gate and a voice cried out:

"Liliane, are you there?"

"Yes, papa dear."

"Open the gate—quick!"

"But I can't, papa! You know the lock is up to high."

"How did you lock it then?"

"I did not lock it. He did."

"Who?"

"The prisoner; I do not know his name."

There was a cry of terror, but Liliane turned about calmly and was surprised to see the convict clutching the spade, the fire of passion in his bloodshot eyes.

"Now," she said angrily, "don't act like that. Don't look at the flowers or the well or the spade, when you know it makes you mean. Open the gate for papa. You promised to be nice like Green; so now drop that spade, or I will cry."

Trembling all over his body the man stared at her. Tears came into his eyes and he dropped the spade. Liliane took him by the hand and drew him toward the gate, dancing gaily:

"You see I am not big enough, so you will have to open the gate."

He raised his hand and drew the bar back.

Three wardens made a rush for the man and knocked him down while a fourth picked up the little girl and took her into his arms.

But when Liliane saw the men striking the struggling convict with their fists, she cried:

"Don't hit him, please! You must not hit him. He has played with me, and I don't want any one to hurt him."

Her father shrugged his shoulders impatiently and said:

"Never mind, dear; he is the stranger!"

He Knew.

A clergyman who performed two marriage ceremonies in one day, has just learned of an incident in that connection that he thinks is rather amusing. The minister had learned that the first couple had just left the parsonage when they met another young man and woman who were looking at each house number as they passed, and who asked the way to the to the minister's house.

The happy bridegroom said he had just come from there, and gave the directions adding that the wedding service was short and only took a few moments.

"How d'you know I'm going to get married?" asked the second groom in surprise.

"Because," the first replied. "You look just as foolish as I felt when I was on my way."

Easy Enough.

The dance was in aid of some fund or other; but that didn't make it any more interesting to Simkins, who was clearly in the last stage of boredom.

"Wish I could get my wife to go home," he grumbled to a friend; "but she won't leave till after the last dance."

"I can tell you how to do it," replied his friend.

"How?" asked Simpkins, eagerly.

"It's simple. Just you dance three times in succession with that pretty girl over there in the pale blue dress, and your wife will take you home in a hurry."

Sure.

"Do you think we need a new national anthem?"

"What's the matter with the old one?"

"Nobody seems to remember the words. Now, if we had a song all the vaudeville artists would sing, we couldn't help learning it."

A Motor Romance.

"What is the title of that novel you are reading?"

"Regina in search of a Soul Mate."

"Does it appear that she will find him?"

"I can't tell yet, but the chauffeur employed by her wealthy father looks promising."

A Respite.

"Are you looking forward to the summer with pleasant anticipation?" asked the optimistic citizen.

"Yes, indeed," replied the pessimistic person. "A great many people I'm tired of looking at will go out of town for the summer."

Domestic Discussion.

"My husband accuses me of extravagance. I spent ten thousand dollars last year."

"I wouldn't mind being scolded on that basis. I have to stand for the same accusation on twenty dollars a week."

The man, afraid to look at her, buried his face in his big hands and shouted:

"Take the red away, take it away, for God's sake!"

Terrified, the little one threw the flowers on the ground, her eyes filling with tears. When the convict opened his eyes he no longer saw the red flowers on the white neck.

Then he stooped down, looked into her face, and said with what he thought was friendly smile: "Don't cry, little one! It is all over now, that I no longer see the red. I will be nice—as nice as Green. Please don't cry, I don't want you to cry."

With his big coarse fingers he caressed her golden curls when suddenly a noise of hurrying feet was heard. The convict listened, turned
